We are proud to offer you best variety, price, and product to meet your specific and confidential needs. Do not wait until it is too late. PREPARE for yourself, family members, children, friends, businesses, communities, government, and emergency management agencies.

You may need to survive on your own or help someone after an emergency or national threat/alert. This means having your own food, water, and other necessary supplies in sufficient quantity to last for at least 72 hours at the Absolute Minimum. Local officials and relief workers cannot reach everyone immediately. It could be hours, days, or in a potentially catastrophic event, unknown length of time that you will need to sustain and survive. Basic services such as electricity, gas, water, sewage treatment, and communication capabilities may be cut off for days, weeks, or even longer. Your supplies kit should contain items to help you manage during these times.

Our National PREPARE Store provides emergency supplies, emergency kits, earthquake supplies, disaster preparedness supplies, emergency supply kits, and emergency food supplies to support all planning requirements.

We offer the best and most reliable emergency preparedness supplies. Offering emergency supplies, radiation protection, emergency preparedness kits, emergency ready store supplies, disaster preparedness supplies, and any other miscellaneous indoor or outdoor survival tools, supplies, and kits. You may visit our website (currently under construction as prices and product availability continues to change) at the nationalpreparestore.com, or inquire directly for special pricing and product availability, as not all supplies are currently listed on our website. We're here to meet your needs to help you sustain in the event of an emergency or disaster.
